Keele Research Ethics Training:

QUALITATIVE AND
STUDENT RESEARCH

Centre for Professional Ethics

MORNING

Student Research: Ethical Issues.

9:30 - 10:45

Student research differs in a number of important ways from other kinds of research. As a result, the ethical concerns take a different shape. This session considers (i) the differences in the nature and goals of student research and (ii) the impact of these differences on the ethical issues surrounding this type of research.

Qualitative Research Methods.

11:00 - 12:15

This session will provide an introduction to a variety of types of research methodology that are used in Qualitative Research (e.g. questionnaires, interviews, focus groups, etc). The session will consider both the benefits of these forms of research and the ethical issues that might arise with their use.
