

Tutorial Help

Introduction

This guide will help you to use our tutorials.

You can run our tutorials as the Flash version or the HTML5 version. Some print functionality is lost from the HTML5 version. However this version is compatible with mobile devices.

You will need access to YouTube to run the majority of our video content.

Health Library eTutorials

The Health Library tutorials have been created to help you to find and use our facilities, services and resources as well as help you to develop your information skills.

They have been created with a similar look and feel to help you to easily learn how to use them.

<< Tutorial Title

<< Welcome Page

<< Navigation Bar

Help Avatar

The tutorials often use an avatar to help you. Click the character for help on what to do on the screen.

What is an Article?

Journals

Issues

Articles

Formats

Click on each option button to view the text

X

The image shows a tutorial interface. At the top, a blue banner contains the title 'What is an Article?'. Below this is a menu with four blue buttons labeled 'Journals', 'Issues', 'Articles', and 'Formats'. To the right of the menu, a woman in a black blazer is smiling and pointing towards the menu. A green speech bubble next to her contains the text 'Click on each option button to view the text'. In the bottom right corner of the tutorial area, there is a red circle with a white 'X' inside. The background of the tutorial area shows a rack of various medical journals, including 'JAMA', 'Mental Health in Family Medicine', 'stroke News', 'PSYCHOLOGICAL MEDICINE', and 'JGIM'.

Tutorial Title

This tells you which tutorial you are running.

Welcome Page

The Welcome page will include a brief description of the tutorial.

Menu

You can view the topic headings you will cover on the menu. You can also use the menu to jump to different sections.

Tutorial Content

The centre of the tutorial page contains the tutorial content. This may consist of text, images, screen-shots, links to other elements and quiz elements.

Navigation

The navigation bar allows you to move through the tutorial page by page. You can also use the menu bar to navigate to different sections of the tutorial.

Internet Links

Many of our tutorials include links to the Internet – for example to go to our resources. You can go to the Internet pages by clicking the “Look Online” button.

What are the advantages of eBooks?

eBooks are made available over the Internet to your computer or laptop.

- ✓ Access them from home, work or university
- ✓ Access them at any time or day
- ✓ Add your own notes to pages or sections
- ✓ Search the text for keywords or phrases

Audio Content

Many of our tutorials contain audio content. You will need to use headphones in order to listen to the content. To control the volume or to mute the sound use the volume control on your PC.

Video Content

Some tutorials contain video content. Most of our videos are available on YouTube. Occasionally we will show you a video from one of our resource providers but most videos are our own content. You can run the video from within the tutorial or go to the video on the YouTube page. YouTube videos may not be available on some NHS networks.

Video: Who are we?

Quiet study space in

This video may not be available on your network.

Resources

Each tutorial has a Resources option along the top bar. This will give you links to related resources.

More Help

More help information is available on the page at the end of the tutorial.