

DARING TO MAKE AN IMPACT: DYNAMIC QUALITATIVE RESEARCH

Saturday 22nd - Sunday 23rd March 2014

Keele University School of Psychology proudly presents this dynamic, interdisciplinary conference, which will offer a range of qualitative methodologies and viewpoints aiming to support the cross-fertilisation of ideas whilst 'disturbing disciplinary boundaries' (Gergen & Gergen, 2004).

Hosted by the Keele Counselling Psychology Team we are delighted to have 5 keynote speakers of international repute:

Saturday 22nd March 2014

Professor Andrew Sparkes
Professor Michael Murray
Dr Kip Jones

Sunday 23rd March 2014

Professor Michael Murray
Dr Michael Larkin
Professor Carla Willig

All are considered to be very much at the cutting edge of qualitative research and are highly respected in this field. Their specialisms are an intriguing mix of narrative, autoethnographic, phenomenological, performative, discourse and IPA approaches to research.

The conference programme will be an energetic mix of keynote presentations, research papers and research related workshops. There will be an opportunity to hear keynote speakers discuss some of the key issues of the day.

We warmly welcome researchers, practitioners and students from all disciplines with an interest or passion for qualitative research, whether relatively new to the field or very experienced.

Research papers and workshops: we very much encourage research papers and workshops with a research or qualitative methodological focus.

For further details please go to:

www.keele-conferencemanagement.com/counsellingconference2014

Images created by Alison Humphreys MSc student 2013
"that this research may offer ' a door of hope to many others crushed in spirit' "
"An Exploration of Resilience" MSc Dissertation Keele
University School of Psychology

Keele
University