2. Overview of the Programmes

Our MA Education, MA International Education and MA Education Leadership and Management are innovative programmes that allow you to approach education as a multi-dimensional discipline, exploring educational issues through economic, social, political and professional lenses. The programmes are aimed at educationalists, not only those working in school settings but also those wishing to prepare for original research at postgraduate level, or seeking a career in education leadership and management, policy making, educational consultancy and the civil service.

The programmes are ideal for individuals looking to develop advanced critical and theoretical perspectives on a broad range of educational matters in a national and international context; they provide an excellent opportunity for you to develop both intellectually and professionally. For example, our practice-focused modules, such as 'Reflecting on Practice' will allow you to reflect critically on aspects of your own practice, and widen your understanding of the latest teaching developments and education research at local, regional, national and international levels. Modules such as 'Issues in Inclusive Education' or 'Global Education Issues' will enable you to explore the changing world of education in the context of social, political, economic and cultural globalisation. Modules such as 'Leading in a Complex World' and 'People, Work and Organisations' will address the needs of executives and managers in today's dynamic environment by focusing on strategic leadership in the context of complexity and change, as well as organisational management.

Undertaking our MA will enable you to demonstrate to employers a level of critical and intellectual rigour, which can place you at the forefront of key educational careers. You will have the opportunity to demonstrate the capacity for sustained and systematic engagement with current evidence-driven curriculum, pedagogy, assessment, international education developments, leadership and management and contemporary policy matters. This can potentially put you in a stronger position for progression, promotion and leadership in education.

With our MA Education, MA International Education and MA Education Leadership and Management you will be well-equipped to develop a career as an educational practitioner, mentor and a school leader. You can also work in education administration, policy advising, educational consultancy, social care, the health sector, advertising and marketing, the charity sector, youth services, the arts sector, museums, the local and national government, as well as national and international Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs/ INGOs). Some of those who have successfully completed masters programmes in Education with us have chosen to pursue further academic study, such as a PhD or a Professional Doctorate.

3. Aims of the programmes

The broad aims of the programme are to enable you to:

- develop as a reflective, research-led and ethical educational practitioner, leader and researcher
- approach education as an academic discipline, encompassing an array of formal, informal, local and global perspectives on education
- critically examine, including via an independent research project, a wide range of contemporary educational issues and theories, while focusing on those that relate more directly to your own interests and/or practice

In addition:

- The MA Education programme is for students who wish to gain an advanced and in-depth understanding of education as an academic discipline, exploring educational issues through economic, social, political and professional lenses.
- The MA International Education is for students who wish to gain an advanced understanding of global and international issues in education, and is aimed at individuals teaching and leading in international institutions, as well as international educational consultants and those working for NGOs/INGOs globally.
- The MA Education Leadership and Management is for students who are looking for an in-depth understanding of educational leadership and management for public, private and not-for-profit organisations and will equip them with the knowledge, skills and behaviours to lead educational developments in the contemporary world.

4. What you will learn

The intended learning outcomes of the programme (what students should know, understand and be able to do at the end of the programme), can be described under the following headings:

- Subject knowledge and understanding
- Subject specific skills
- Key or transferable skills (including employability skills)

Subject knowledge and understanding

Successful students will be able to:

- engage actively with a variety of theories and practices associated with reflective practice
- critically explore the changing relationships between work and education and the implications for individuals and society
- analyse the changing world of education in the context of social, political, economic and cultural globalisation
- demonstrate understanding of a range of methods for conducting educational research, and explain their relationship to theory

In addition:

Students on the MA Education Programme, will be able to:

- evaluate the role of education in creating good citizens
- critically engage with insights into many different aspects of inclusive and creative education

Students on the MA International Education Programme will be able to:

- explore the differences in educational policy and practice across selected countries
- interrogate contemporary approaches to leadership and management in education

Students on the MA Education Leadership & Management will be able to:

- critically analyse theories of leadership and management and their applications to education
- critically engage with insights into many different aspects of inclusive education

Subject specific skills

Successful students will be able to:

- critically examine the primary aspects of globalisation and their impact on education in various settings
- critically evaluate key methodologies and methods underpinning research in education
- carry out and write up an original piece of research

In addition:

Students on the MA Education Programme, will be able to:

- demonstrate critical awareness of the politics and pedagogy of creativity and inclusivity in education
- explain the relationship between education and various concepts of citizenship

Students on the MA International Education Programme will be able to:

- develop comparative analysis skills using a range of sources including research, statistics, policy documents and personal experience/accounts and themed discussion
- develop a theoretical framework for considering the relationship between education and citizenship over time

Students on the MA Education Leadership & Management will be able to:

- deconstruct critical, historical and reflective approaches to 'inclusive' education
- develop a plan for shaping of organisational culture, supported by relevant leadership and management theories

Key or transferable skills (including employability skills)

Successful students will be able to:

- critique research findings on various aspects of education and apply arguments to topical questions
- apply knowledge of contemporary issues in education across a range of contexts and materials
- conduct independent research
- produce robust written material (including under strict timed conditions) in different formats and lengths and for different purposes
- synthesise theoretical knowledge with practical experience and develop an appropriate action plan
- value difference
- communicate effectively (in spoken and written form)
- use information technology
- become independent, self-critical learners staying at the forefront of educational developments

Keele Graduate attributes

Engagement with this programme will enable you to develop your intellectual, personal and professional capabilities. At Keele, we call these our ten Graduate Attributes and they include independent thinking, synthesizing information, creative problem solving, communicating clearly, and appreciating the social, environmental and global implications of your studies and activities. Our educational programme and learning environment is designed to help you to become a well-rounded graduate who is capable of making a positive and valued contribution in a complex and rapidly changing world, whichever spheres of life you engage in after your studies are completed.

Further information about the Keele Graduate Attributes can be found here: <http://www.keele.ac.uk/journey/>

5. How is the programme taught?

Teaching on the programme will take place via asynchronous activities. These will include short pre-recorded videos, online group discussions and other group activities, reading and research, formative assessments with weekly deadlines and summative assessments. All activities will be delivered on Canvas. Canvas is the Virtual Learning Environment (VLE) used by staff and students to support your modules on this programme. Canvas is your key online platform which you will use to:

- Access core material and readings for the course
- Submit assignments and receive feedback on them
- Participate in learning activities and communicate with your peers and tutors
- Access student support

The input from course leaders and online tutors will include: outcome-based learning materials, developmental feedback, and detailed instructions on how to complete weekly tasks. Individual participant learning activities and material will be based around student engagement which will need to be evidenced via pair and group learning activities (such as discussions, portfolios, group work, peer review) between the students as well as between the students and the tutors.

Apart from these formal activities, students are also provided with regular opportunities to talk through particular areas of difficulty, and any special learning needs they may have, with their Student Success Coordinator or module lecturers on a one-to-one basis.

These learning and teaching methods enable students to achieve the learning outcomes of the programme in a variety of ways. For example:

- by catering to students' different learning styles (e.g. visual vs. auditory learners)
- by providing the material in both written and spoken form
- by enabling you to work in groups but also on an individual basis
- by providing the material in small chunks , used to scaffold students towards achieving the learning outcomes
- by providing 24 hour access to the course materials
- by easing the student journey via consistency, templatised layouts and page elements on Canvas, clear signposting, universal design of learning activities and collaborative and supportive approach of tutors

6. Teaching Staff

The programme team comprises members of staff who are responsible for the provision of the suite of education programmes in the School of Social, Political and Global Studies. They are all highly qualified, experienced and respected academics working at the forefront of their fields. The breadth and depth of their expertise brings a unique flavour to the programme and enables them to offer students excellent support and supervision. These staff will be Module Leaders who will be supported by online tutors. The online tutors will be responsible for grading and providing feedback on assessments, managing discussion forums, responding to emails and managing on a day-to-day basis certain activities according to the direction of the Module Leader.

Staff turnover, for example where key members of staff leave, fall ill or go on research leave, may result in changes to the programme's content. The University will endeavour to ensure that any impact on students is limited if such changes occur.

7. What is the structure of the programme?

All three programmes (MA Education, MA International Education and MA Education Leadership and Management) will be delivered based on a carousel model. This means that the programmes have multiple intakes and upon enrolment a student will take the module that runs next - there are no prerequisites for joining the modules. There will be 6 intakes per year , with 6 modules running in each year.

The programme currently comprises of 9 x 15 credit modules and 1 x 45 credits module (Dissertation - Main Research Project). 1 x 15 credit module = 150 student learning hours (18.75 hours per week). Each 15 credit module will run over 8 weeks (7 weeks of teaching and 1 week dedicated to supporting students' assessment via tasks designed to scaffold you towards submitting a high quality assignment). Modules will be taught asynchronously, including short pre-recorded videos, online group discussions and other activities , reading and research, formative assessments with weekly deadlines and summative assessments. Each week, you will be provided with specific weekly learning outcomes, as well as detailed instructions regarding what will be expected of you in terms of reading, research and formative tasks. Weekly readings and reading guidance will also be made available. As part of the dissertation module (45 credits), you will be required to conduct independent research and you will be supported by your supervisor who will work with you on an individual basis.

There are three programmes - all modules on each programme are 'compulsory' (so it is not a case that students take 'options' for their specialism). The structure of each programme is presented below:

9. How is the Programme Assessed?

The wide variety of assessment methods used on this programme at Keele reflects the broad range of knowledge and skills that are developed as you progress through the degree programme. Teaching staff pay particular attention to specifying clear assessment criteria and providing timely, regular and constructive feedback that helps to clarify things you did not understand and helps you to improve your performance. The following list is representative of the variety of assessment methods used on your programme:

- essays
- case studies
- critical reflections
- policy analysis
- presentations
- research proposal

Marks are awarded for specified components in each module designed to assess your achievement of learning outcomes. You will also be assessed formatively (with no marks) to enable you to monitor your own progress and to assist staff in identifying and addressing any specific learning needs. Feedback, including guidance on how you can improve the quality of your work, is also provided on all graded assessments within three working weeks of submission, unless there are compelling circumstances that make this impossible, and more informally in the course of tutorial and online discussions.

10. Accreditation

This programme does not have accreditation from an external body.

11. University Regulations

The University Regulations form the framework for learning, teaching and assessment and other aspects of the student experience. Further information about the University Regulations can be found at:
<http://www.keele.ac.uk/student-agreement/>

If this programme has any exemptions, variations or additions to the University Regulations these will be detailed in an Annex at the end of this document titled 'Programme-specific regulations'.

12. What are the typical admission requirements for the Programme?

See the relevant course page on the website for the admission requirements relevant to this programme:
<https://www.keele.ac.uk/study/>

13. How are students supported on the programme?

Each student will be supported by the Student Success Coordinator who, in collaboration with the Module Leads and Online Tutors, maintains an overview of their academic progress throughout the period of the programme. The Course Handbook and weekly module maps provide key information and guidance on structure, content and assessment. The course complies with University policy on student pastoral and academic support. There is a dedicated Programme Administrator who is available to deal with students' administrative queries. In addition, the Programme Lead, Module Leads and Online Tutors will provide academic support for the student. The student has an important role in liaising closely with all partners involved in the programme. Module Leaders will provide additional support within the taught modules. The Programme Lead, Module Leader and the Programme Administrator will be contactable online in ways communicated during the orientation module. The University has a range of support services which are detailed on the Keele Website.

14. Learning Resources

The programme is taught using a variety of resources, including self-study materials in the form of text-based materials, visual materials, academic journals and module tutor notes. All learning resources are available electronically (see specific module maps for more information). Electronic/digital resources can be accessed via Canvas; a platform which will be used to deliver the modules.

15. Other Learning Opportunities

As Keele University students, students have the opportunity to take part in university events (such as training, conferences, seminar series), which are delivered by leading academics, practitioners and policy-makers.

16. Additional Costs

As to be expected there will be additional costs for inter-library loans and potential overdue library fines, print and graduation. We do not anticipate any further costs for this programme.

These costs have been forecast by the University as accurately as possible but may be subject to change as a result of factors outside of our control (for example, increase in costs for external services). Forecast costs are reviewed on an annual basis to ensure they remain representative. Where additional costs are in direct control of the University we will ensure increases do not exceed 5%.

17. Quality management and enhancement

The quality and standards of learning in this programme are subject to a continuous process of monitoring, review and enhancement.

- The School Education Committee is responsible for reviewing and monitoring quality management and enhancement procedures and activities across the School.
- Individual modules and the programme as a whole are reviewed and enhanced every year in the annual programme review which takes place at the end of the academic year.
- The programmes are run in accordance with the University's Quality Assurance procedures and are subject to periodic reviews under the Internal Quality Audit (IQA) process.

Student evaluation of, and feedback on, the quality of learning on every module takes place every year using a variety of different methods:

- The results of student evaluations of all modules are reported to module leaders and reviewed by the Programme Committee as part of annual programme review.
- Findings related to the programme from the annual Postgraduate Taught Experience Survey (PTES), and from regular surveys of the student experience conducted by the University, are subjected to careful analysis and a planned response at programme and School level.
- Feedback received from representatives of students on the programme is considered and acted upon on a regular basis

The University appoints senior members of academic staff from other universities to act as external examiners on all programmes. They are responsible for:

- Approving examination questions
- Confirming all marks which contribute to a student's degree
- Reviewing and giving advice on the structure and content of the programme and assessment procedures

Information about current external examiner(s) can be found here:
<http://www.keele.ac.uk/qa/externalexaminers/currentexternalexaminers/>

18. The principles of programme design

The programme described in this document has been drawn up with reference to, and in accordance with the guidance set out in, the following documents:

- a. UK Quality Code for Higher Education, Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education:
<http://www.qaa.ac.uk/quality-code>
- b. QAA Subject Benchmark Statement - Education Studies (2019) - https://www.qaa.ac.uk/docs/qaa/subject-benchmark-statements/subject-benchmark-statement-education-studies.pdf?sfvrsn=3ae2cb81_5
- c. Keele University Regulations and Guidance for Students and Staff: <http://www.keele.ac.uk/regulations>
- d. Quality Matters - <https://www.qualitymatters.org/>

19. Annex - Programme-specific regulations

Programme Regulations: Master's in Education

Final Award and Award Titles	MA Education MA International Education MA Education Leadership and Management
Intermediate Award(s)	Postgraduate Diploma in Education, Postgraduate Certificate in Education
Last modified	July 2021
Programme Specification	https://www.keele.ac.uk/qa/programmespecifications

The University's Academic Regulations which can be found on the Keele University website (<https://www.keele.ac.uk/regulations/>) [1] apply to and regulate the programme, other than in instances where the specific programme regulations listed below over-ride them. These programme regulations list:

- Exemptions which are characterised by the omission of the relevant regulation.
- Variations which are characterised by the replacement of part of the regulation with alternative wording.
- Additional Requirements which set out what additional rules that apply to students in relation to this programme.

The following exemptions, variations and additional requirements to the University regulations have been checked by Academic Services and have been approved by the Faculty Education Committee.

A) EXEMPTIONS

The clause(s) listed below describe where an exemption from the University's Academic Regulations exists:

For the whole duration of their studies, students on this Programme are exempt from the following regulations:

Exemption 1: Academic Warnings

- Students on this programme are not covered by the University's Academic Warnings process.

B) VARIATIONS

The clause(s) listed below describe where a variation from the University's Academic Regulations exists:

Variation 1: Fees

There is a variation to how the students on this programme are charged fees (fees are charged either per module or in full).

Variation 2: Progression Rules

Given the carousel model and multiple entry points, students progression will initially be determined based on provisional marks.

The programme includes a dissertation stage consisting of a 45-credit dissertation module.

Variation 3: from Regulation D1.12.1.5

You will be required to take one or more study break if the School advises you that you carry outstanding assessment attempts for previous modules to the equivalent of 45 credits or more. If you have already embarked on a further module, you may be placed on a compulsory study break to attempt your outstanding assessments before you are allowed to resume your studies at the next opportunity. Any compulsory study break will count towards your total allocation of study break time available on the programme. You will be allowed to resume your studies after your study break once you carry no more than 15 credits worth of outstanding assessment.

Additional Requirements

The programme requirements listed below are in addition to the University's Academic Regulations:

Additional requirement 1: Study Breaks

Part-time students: You are entitled to take a maximum of six informal breaks in your study between the modules you enrol on. A study break is an informal absence for the duration of one module. You cannot take more than two consecutive study breaks in succession. Longer periods of absence require a formal leave of absence.

Full-time students: Are entitled to take a maximum of three informal breaks in their study between the modules they enrol on. A study break is an informal absence for the duration of one module. They cannot take more than two consecutive study breaks in succession. Longer periods of absence require a formal leave of absence.
