2. What is a Dual Honours programme?

Dual Honours degrees are degrees that are taken in two different subjects, resulting in an X and Y degree title, for example American Studies and Criminology. If you are taking a Dual Honours programme, these will be the two subjects you applied for. These are referred to as your Principal Subjects.

In a Dual Honours degree you must take at least 120 credits in each Principal Subject, accrued over all three levels of study, with at least 30 credits in Year 1 (Level 4) and at least 45 credits in each of Years 2 and 3 (Levels 5 and 6) in each of two Principal Subjects. The remaining available credits can be filled with modules from these subjects or other subjects entirely.

What is a Major/Minor programme?

Major/Minor degrees are degrees that are taken in two different subjects, much like a Dual Honours degree, except that you will specialise in the Major subject. In a Major/Minor degree you will need at least 225 credits in your Major subject over your three years of study with at least two modules (30 credits) taken each year in your Major Subject, although some Principal Subjects will require you to take more than this and this will be stated in the relevant programme specification. You will also need 90 credits in your Minor subject with a minimum of 30 credits (two modules) taken in Year 1 (Level 4) and 45 credits (three modules) taken in Year 2 (Level 5).

Students taking the Minor Route in American Studies might not necessarily be able to demonstrate that they have achieved all of the Programme's learning outcomes.

3. Overview of the Programme

American Studies explores the nature, development and rich diversity of the United States from a range of perspectives. Keele pursues this goal by bringing together several disciplines – history, literature, film, politics, geography. You will be encouraged to develop your own disciplinary interests; equally, you will develop multi- and inter-disciplinary perspectives on America. One important element of the course is the opportunity to exchange with a partner university in North America, thereby permitting you to experience a different academic and social environment while simultaneously pursuing your Keele degree.

Beginning in the 1960s, Keele was a pioneer in the development of American Studies in Britain. Principally located in the School of Humanities, but drawing contributions from other schools, notably the School of Politics, International Relations and Philosophy (SPIRE), the Programme is delivered by a group of research-active teachers, among whom are some of the leading practitioners in their respective disciplines.

4. Aims of the Programme

The broad aims of the programme are to enable you to:

- Undertake a flexible, high quality, intellectually stimulating modular programme within which you will improve your knowledge and understanding of US society and culture.
- Develop your international awareness and experience to play an active, thoughtful and inquiring role in society.
- Use and develop a wide range of transferable skills, such as effective collation, interpretation and comparison of information from a broad range of sources using different analytical methods. These skills are not only central to progress in American Studies but also vital in helping you meet professional employment needs.
- Develop your full potential by providing you with the ability to acquire and develop skills at each level of the programme to fulfil the more challenging requirements of each subsequent level.

5. What you will learn

The intended learning outcomes of the programme (what students should know, understand and be able to do at the end of the programme), can be described under the following headings:

- Subject knowledge and understanding
- Subject specific skills
- Key or transferable skills (including employability skills)

Subject knowledge and understanding

Successful students will be able to:

- Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the historical, literary, and cultural development and contemporary character of the United States
- Use and interrogate a range of primary and secondary written, and/or oral and/or visual sources
- Understand and critically apply key concepts and scholarship in more than one separate discipline
- Recognise the opportunities and limits afforded by disciplinary perspectives

Subject specific skills

Successful students will be able to:

- Engage critically with different disciplinary approaches to the United States
- Possess the ability to integrate a diverse range of appropriate primary and secondary materials
- Command a range of techniques and methodologies, such as bibliographical, library and internet research skills, proficiency in reading and textual analysis, appreciation of theoretical models, and alertness to different interpretations of issues and events

Key or transferable skills (including employability skills)

Successful students will be able to:

- Locate and evaluate information and ideas from a variety of sources, including on-line and digital materials
- Present materials in a written form, with clarity in the use of language, professional referencing, and lucid and effective layout
- Present materials orally in a clear and effective manner
- Write and think under pressure, and meet deadlines
- Organise their learning through self-management
- Record and reflect on their achievements
- Work with others in a constructive and respectful way

Keele Graduate attributes

Engagement with this programme will enable you to develop your intellectual, personal and professional capabilities. At Keele, we call these our ten Graduate Attributes and they include independent thinking, synthesizing information, creative problem solving, communicating clearly, and appreciating the social, environmental and global implications of your studies and activities. Our educational programme and learning environment is designed to help you to become a well-rounded graduate who is capable of making a positive and valued contribution in a complex and rapidly changing world, whichever spheres of life you engage in after your studies are completed.

Further information about the Keele Graduate Attributes can be found here: <http://www.keele.ac.uk/journey/>

6. How is the Programme taught?

Learning and teaching methods used on the programme vary according to the subject matter and level of the module. They include the following:

- Lectures where the lecturer provides students with a framework for reading and independent study. Lectures may also involve use of audio-video materials
- Seminars in groups of up to 20 students where key issues can be discussed in more depth. Students are expected to play a full part, and occasionally to lead, these discussions. In some modules seminars classes may also incorporate elements of formal lecturing, as well as audio-visual presentations
- Workshops are literature classes which involve a mixture of formal presentation and small-group work, and are specifically designed to allow students to engage in detailed textual analysis of individual passages
- Independent study based on directed reading from text books, research monographs, academic journals and/or viewing of visual materials, as well as detailed research investigations in primary texts
- Web-based learning using the University's virtual online learning environment (KLE). The KLE is accessible to all students on and off campus and provides easy access to a wide range of resources and research tools, including access to documents, quizzes, discussion boards, assignments, announcements and blogs

All Year One modules are taught by a combination of one-hour lectures, one-hour seminars, and, for certain modules, one- or two-hour workshops. Standard seminar class size is 15-18.

Year Two and Year Three modules are taught either by one-hour lecture/workshops and one-hour seminars or by two-hour seminar classes with group sizes varying from 15 to 20.

Year Three dissertations are primarily based upon independent study, with the student working directly under the supervision of an individual member of staff. A small number of core lectures provide general advice on research, writing and presentation. There are also some group meetings with other students under the supervision of the same tutor.

All module tutors will make themselves available via weekly posted Feedback and Consultation Hours and email. Students will also have access to their Programme Director, Year Tutor and their Personal Tutor to discuss academic progress.

Apart from these formal activities, students are also provided with regular opportunities to talk through particular areas of difficulty, and any special learning needs they may have, with their Personal Tutors or module lecturers on a one-to-one basis.

These learning and teaching methods enable students to achieve the learning outcomes of the programme in a variety of ways. For example:

- Lectures provide students with the tools and the knowledge to further their understanding of their subject, and help them to organize and focus their material in preparation for seminar discussion
- Seminars differ in length, format and texture, depending upon the subject, but are essential components of each module, and invariably include individual or group presentations. They aim to provide a supportive environment for debate and discussion and provide an important opportunity for the expression and of individual ideas and interaction with those of others
- Independent study through the research dissertation allows students, under the supervision of a specialist research-active teacher, to formulate relevant research questions, to devise an appropriate strategy for answering them, and to deliver the research results in appropriate narrative form

7. Teaching Staff

The permanent teaching staff on the American Studies Principal Programme – who have a wide experience of higher education teaching in Britain, continental Europe and the United States – currently consists of full-time faculty members from the School of Humanities, embracing the disciplines of history, literature, geography and popular culture, and American politics specialists from the School of Politics, International Relations and Philosophy (SPIRE). All new academic staff undertake Keele’s nationally accredited Learning and Teaching in Higher Education Programme; other qualifications possessed by American Studies faculty include the Diploma in English Language Teaching to Adults.

The University will attempt to minimise changes to our core teaching teams, however, delivery of the programme depends on having a sufficient number of staff with the relevant expertise to ensure that the programme is taught to the appropriate academic standard.

Staff turnover, for example where key members of staff leave, fall ill or go on research leave, may result in changes to the programme’s content. The University will endeavour to ensure that any impact on students is limited if such changes occur.

8. What is the Structure of the Programme?

The academic year runs from September to June and is divided into two semesters. The number of weeks of teaching will vary from course to course, but you can generally expect to attend scheduled teaching sessions between the end of September and mid-December, and from mid-January to the end of April.

Our degree courses are organised into modules. Each module is usually a self-contained unit of study and each is usually assessed separately with the award of credits on the basis of 1 credit = 10 hours of student effort. An outline of the structure of the programme is provided in the tables below.

There are four types of module delivered as part of this programme. They are:

- Compulsory core module – a module that you are required to study on this course;
- Optional core module – these allow you some limited choice of what to study from a list of modules;
- Programme approved elective module – subject-related modules that count towards the number of subject credits required by your degree;
- Free-standing elective module – a free choice of modules that count towards the overall credit requirement but not the number of subject-related credits.

Students must accumulate at least 30 core credits in Year 1. All Dual Honours students must take at least 45 credits in each Principal Subject in each of Level 5 (Year 2) and Level 6 (Year 3).

In Year 1 all Dual Honours students must take one compulsory core module in each semester. They may then choose in addition from a range of programme approved electives, and free-standing electives from elsewhere in the University.

In Year 2 Dual Honours students will be able to choose one Optional Core Module from the range of American Studies offerings each semester. The remainder of American Studies modules will be considered programme approved elective modules they may also choose to take in addition. There are other approved electives and again free-standing ones.

In Year 3, Dual Honours American Studies students may take a two-semester double-weighted ISP (worth 30 credits) with the opportunity to choose from a range of supporting programme approved electives in all the main disciplines as well as approved electives (especially those offered by cognate programmes – e.g. History, English, Politics), and again free-standing electives.

Major Route

The Major Route is as above for Years 1 and 2 (Level 4 and 5). In Year 3 (Level 6), students take all or mainly American Studies modules. In a Major/Minor degree students need at least 225 credits in their major subject over three years of study with at least two modules (30 credits) taken each year in the major subject.

Minor Route

The Minor Route is as above for Years 1 and 2 (Level 4 and 5). In Year 3 (Level 6), students take all or mainly modules in their other main subject, with American Studies becoming the minor. Students need 90 credits in the minor subject with a minimum of 30 credits (two modules) taken at level 1 and 45 credits (three modules) taken at Year 2.

Learning Outcomes

The tables below set out what you will learn in each year of the Programme, the modules in which that learning takes place, and the main ways in which you are assessed on your learning. In Year 1 these learning outcomes are achieved in the two compulsory core modules. Some of these outcomes may also be achieved in elective modules together with other outcomes not stated here. In Years 2 and 3 the stated outcomes are achieved by taking any of the optional core modules offered in each semester.

YEAR 1 (Level 4)
First year modules provide you with a thorough grounding in the study skills needed to pursue American Studies subjects at more advanced level as well as some basic knowledge on specific areas of the American experience.
Subject Knowledge and Understanding
Learning Outcome	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of the Level Outcome) used

9. Final and intermediate awards

Credits required for each level of academic award are as follows:

Honours Degree	360 credits	You will require at least 120 credits at levels 4, 5 and 6. The number of American Studies credits you require depends on whether American Studies is taken as a Dual, Major or Minor subject. Dual Honours: You will require at least 120 credits in both American Studies and your other principal subject (out of 360 credits overall), with at least 30 credits in Year 1 (Level 4) and at least 45 credits in each of Years 2 and 3 (Levels 5 and 6) in each of your two Principal Subjects. You will also be required to take at least one Independent Study Project in your final year. Major route: You will require at least 225 credits in American Studies and at least 90 credits in your other Minor subject over the course of the degree. Students taking American Studies as a Major subject must obtain at least 30 credits in American Studies in each level of study. Minor route: You will require at least 90 credits in American Studies and at least 225 credits in your other Major subject over the course of the degree. Students taking American Studies as a Minor subject must obtain at least 30 credits in American Studies in Year 1 (level 4) and 45 credits in American Studies in Year 2 (level 5).
Diploma in Higher Education	240 credits	You will require at least 120 credits at level 4 or higher and at least 120 credits at level 5 or higher
Certificate in Higher Education	120 credits	You will require at least 120 credits at level 4 or higher

American Studies with International Year: in addition to the above students must pass a module covering the international year in order to graduate with a named degree in American Studies with International Year. Students who do not complete, or fail the international year, will be transferred to the three-year American Studies programme.

10. How is the Programme assessed?

The wide variety of assessment methods used within American Studies at Keele reflects the broad range of knowledge and skills that are developed as you progress through the degree programme. Teaching staff pay particular attention to specifying clear assessment criteria and providing timely, regular and constructive feedback that helps to clarify things you did not understand and helps you to improve your performance. The following list is representative of the variety of assessment methods used within American Studies:

- Unseen examinations and class tests test students' knowledge of American Studies topics. Examinations may consist of essays, short answer and/or multiple choice questions
- Essays test the quality and application of subject knowledge. In addition they allow students to demonstrate their ability to carry out basic bibliographic research and to communicate their ideas effectively in writing in scholarly style using an appropriate referencing system
- Research dissertations enable students to explore in depth an area of particular interest through a substantial piece of focused research and writing, and test their ability to formulate and answer research questions

- Oral presentations and reports assess students' subject knowledge and understanding. They also test their ability to work effectively as members of a team, to communicate what they know orally and visually, and to reflect on these processes as part of their own personal development
- Portfolios may consist of a range of different pieces of work but routinely include a requirement that students provide some evidence of critical reflection on the development of their own learning

Marks are awarded for summative assessments designed to assess your achievement of learning outcomes. You will also be assessed formatively to enable you to monitor your own progress and to assist staff in identifying and addressing any specific learning needs. Feedback, including guidance on how you can improve the quality of your work, is also provided on all summative assessments within three working weeks of submission, unless there are compelling circumstances that make this impossible, and more informally in the course of tutorial and seminar discussions.

11. Contact Time and Expected Workload

This contact time measure is intended to provide you with an indication of the type of activity you are likely to undertake during this programme. The data is compiled based on module choices and learning patterns of students on similar programmes in previous years. Every effort is made to ensure this data is a realistic representation of what you are likely to experience, but changes to programmes, teaching methods and assessment methods mean this data is representative and not specific.

Undergraduate courses at Keele contain an element of module choice; therefore, individual students will experience a different mix of contact time and assessment types dependent upon their own individual choice of modules. The figures below are an example of activities that a student may expect on your chosen course by year/stage of study. Contact time includes scheduled activities such as: lecture, seminar, tutorial, project supervision, demonstration, practical classes and labs, supervised time in labs/workshop, fieldwork and external visits. The figures are based on 1,200 hours of student effort each year for full-time students.

Activity	Year 1 (Level 4)	Year 2 (Level 5)	Year 3 (Level 6)
Scheduled learning and teaching activities	18%	14%	17%
Guided independent Study	82%	61%	83%
Placements	0%	25%	0%

12. Accreditation

This programme does not have accreditation from an external body.

13. Regulations

The University Regulations form the framework for learning, teaching and assessment and other aspects of the student experience. Further information about the University Regulations can be found at: <http://www.keele.ac.uk/student-agreement/>

A student who has completed a semester abroad will not normally be eligible to transfer onto the International Year option.

14. What are the typical admission requirements for the programme?

Subject	A-level	Subjects not included	International Baccalaureate	BTEC	Access to Higher Education Diploma	GCSE requirements
American Studies	BBB/ABC	None	32 points	DDM	Obtain Access to Higher Education Diploma with 30 Level 3 credits at	English Language @ C (or 4)

					Distinction

Applicants who are not currently undertaking any formal study or who have been out of formal education for more than 3 years and are not qualified to A-level or BTEC standard may be offered entry to the University's Foundation Year Programme.

Applicants for whom English is not a first language must provide evidence of a recognised qualification in English language. The minimum score for entry to the Programme is Academic IELTS 6.0 or equivalent.

Please note: All non-native English speaking students are required to undertake a diagnostic English language assessment on arrival at Keele, to determine whether English language support may help them succeed with their studies. An English language module may be compulsory for some students during their first year at Keele.

Accreditation of Prior Learning (APL) is considered on a case-by-case basis and those interested should contact the Programme Director. The University's guidelines on this can be found here:

<http://www.keele.ac.uk/qa/accreditationofpriorlearning/>

15. How are students supported on the programme?

Support for student learning on the Programme is provided in the following ways:

- Module and tutorial group leaders are responsible for providing support for learning on the modules and in the tutorial groups for which they are responsible. They also give individual feedback on in-course assessments and more general feedback on examinations.
- Every student is allocated to a personal tutor who is responsible for reviewing and advising on students' academic progress in American Studies.
- Personal tutors also act as a first point of contact for students on non-academic issues, which may affect their learning and can refer students on to a range of specialist health, welfare and financial services co-ordinated by the University's Student Support and Development Services (SSDS).
- All members of teaching staff on the American Studies Programme are available to see students during advertised weekly office hours and at other times by appointment

Non-native English-speaking students are offered language classes, facilities and services by the University's English Language Unit. In addition to credit-bearing modules on English for academic study, students also have access to one-to-one tutorials for individual help and advice, and to a wealth of resources for self-study and practice.

16. Learning Resources

American Studies is taught in modern teaching rooms across the University, almost all of which are equipped with computers, internet access and electronic whiteboards or projection equipment. Rooms may be arranged either in traditional lecture format or more informally to allow students to work together in small groups.

The learning resources available to students on the Programme include:

- The extensive collection of American Studies materials relevant to undergraduate study held in the University Library. Much of this material is also accessible online to Keele students from anywhere in the world with a University username and password.
- A smaller collection of American Studies publications and materials held in an Undergraduate Resources Centre in the University's main Chancellor's Building (CBB1.045). The URC is open at regular times during teaching periods and the resources are specifically related to the needs of students on the American Studies Principal Programme.
- The KLE, which provides easy access to a wide range of learning resources including lecture notes, electronic materials available in a repository maintained by the University Library and other resources – video, audio and text-based – accessible from external providers via the internet.

17. Other learning opportunities

Study abroad (semester)

Students on the American Studies programme have the potential opportunity to spend a semester abroad in their second year studying at one of Keele's international partner universities.

Exactly which countries are available depends on the student's choice of degree subjects. An indicative list of countries is on the website (<http://www.keele.ac.uk/studyabroad/partneruniversities/>); however this does not guarantee the availability of study in a specific country as this is subject to the University's application process for studying abroad.

No additional tuition fees are payable for a single semester studying abroad but students do have to bear the costs of travelling to and from their destination university, accommodation, food and personal costs. Depending on the destination they are studying at additional costs may include visas, study permits, residence permits, and compulsory health checks. Students should expect the total costs of studying abroad to be greater than if they study in the UK, information is made available from the Global Education Team throughout the process, as costs will vary depending on destination

Whilst students are studying abroad any Student Finance eligibility will continue, where applicable students may be eligible for specific travel or disability grants. Students studying in Erasmus+ destinations may be eligible for grants as part of this programme. Students studying outside of this programme may be eligible for income dependent bursaries at Keele.

Students travel on a comprehensive Keele University insurance plan, for which there are currently no additional charges. Some governments and/or universities require additional compulsory health coverage plans; costs for this will be advised during the application process.

Study Abroad (International Year)

A summary of the International Year, which is a potential option for students after completion of year 2 (Level 5), is provided at Annex A.

18. Additional costs

As to be expected there will be additional costs for inter-library loans and potential overdue library fines, print and graduation.

We do not anticipate any further costs for this undergraduate programme.

19. Quality management and enhancement

The quality and standards of learning in American Studies are subject to a continuous process of monitoring, review and enhancement.

- The Learning and Teaching Committee of the School of Humanities is responsible for reviewing and monitoring quality management and enhancement procedures and activities across the School.
- Individual modules and the American Studies Programme as a whole are reviewed and enhanced every year in the annual programme review which takes place at the end of the academic year and as part of the University's Curriculum Annual Review and Development (CARD) process.
- The programmes are run in accordance with the University's Quality Assurance procedures and are subject to periodic reviews under the Internal Quality Audit (IQA) process.

Student evaluation of, and feedback on, the quality of learning on every American Studies module takes place every year using a variety of different methods:

- The results of student evaluations of all modules are reported to module leaders and reviewed by the Programme Committee as part of the Curriculum Annual Review and Development (CARD) process.

- Findings related to the American Studies Programmes from the annual National Student Survey (NSS), and from regular surveys of the student experience conducted by the University, are subjected to careful analysis and a planned response at programme and School level.
- Feedback received from representatives of students in all three years of the American Studies Programme is considered and acted on at regular meetings of the Programmes Staff/Student Liaison Committee.

The University appoints senior members of academic staff from other universities to act as external examiners on all programmes. They are responsible for:

- Approving examination questions
- Confirming all marks which contribute to a student's degree
- Reviewing and giving advice on the structure and content of the programme and assessment procedures

Information about current external examiner(s) can be found here:

<http://www.keele.ac.uk/qa/externalexaminers/currentexternalexaminers/>

20. The principles of programme design

The American Studies Programmes described in this document have been drawn up with reference to, and in accordance with the guidance set out in, the following documents:

- a. UK Quality Code for Higher Education, Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education: <http://www.qaa.ac.uk/quality-code>
- b. QAA Subject Benchmark Statement: Area Studies (2016) http://www.qaa.ac.uk/docs/qaa/subject-benchmark-statements/sbs-area-studies-16.pdf?sfvrsn=e9edf781_14

American Studies with International Year

Please note: in order to be eligible to take the International Year option your other subject must also offer this option. Please refer to the information published in the course document for your other subject.

International Year Programme

Students registered for Dual Honours American Studies may either be admitted for or apply to transfer during their period of study at Level 5 to the Dual Honours programme in both their principal subjects, providing that they meet the progression criteria outlined in this document. Students accepted onto the International Year programme will have an extra year of study at an international partner institution after they have completed Year 2 (Level 5) at Keele.

Students who successfully complete both the second year (Level 5) and the International Year will be permitted to progress to Level 6. Students who fail to satisfy the examiners in respect of the International Year will normally revert to the Dual Honours programme without the International Year and progress to Level 6 on that basis. The failure will be recorded on the student's final transcript.

Study at Level 4, Level 5 and Level 6 will be as per the main body of this document. The additional detail contained in this annex will pertain solely to students registered for 'American Studies with International Year'.

International Year Programme Aims

In addition to the programme aims specified in the main body of this document, the international year programme of study aims to provide students with:

1. Personal development as a student and a researcher with an appreciation of the international dimension of their subject
2. Experience of a different culture, academically, professionally and socially

Entry Requirements for the International Year

Students may apply to the 4-year programme during Level 5. Admission to the International Year is subject to successful application, interview and references from appropriate staff.

The criteria to be applied are:

- Academic Performance (an average of 60% across all modules at Level 5 is normally required)
- General Aptitude (to be demonstrated by application for study abroad, interview during the 2nd semester of year 2 (Level 5), and by recommendation of the student's personal tutor, 1st and 2nd year tutors and programme director)

Student Support

Students will be supported whilst on the International Year via the following methods:

- Phone or Skype conversations with Study Abroad tutors, in line with recommended Personal Tutoring meeting points.
- Support from the University's Global Education Team

Learning Outcomes

In addition to the learning outcomes specified in the main text of the Programme Specification, students who complete a Keele undergraduate programme with International Year will be able to:

- a. Describe, discuss and reflect upon the cultural and international differences and similarities of different learning environments

- b. Discuss the benefits and challenges of global citizenship and internationalisation
- c. Explain how their perspective on their academic discipline has been influenced by locating it within an international setting.

In addition, students who complete 'American Studies with International Year' will be able to:

- i) Design, plan and critically evaluate critical projects within the field of American Studies, record relevant information accurately and systematically and be able to reflect upon a range of sources in a critical manner.
- ii) Integrate, apply and develop principles relating to American Studies, to describe and explain cultural, historical or political phenomena and reflect critically on problems relating to contemporary society and culture.

Please note that students on Dual Honours programmes with International Year must meet the subject-specific learning outcomes for BOTH their principal subjects.

These learning outcomes will all be assessed by the submission of a satisfactory individual learning agreement, the successful completion of assessments at the partner institution and the submission of the reflective portfolio element of the international year module.

Course Regulations

Students registered for the 'American Studies with International Year' are subject to the course specific regulations (if any) and the University regulations. In addition, during the International Year, the following regulations will apply:

Students undertaking the International Year must complete 120 credits, which must comprise at least 40% in the student's discipline areas.

This may impact on your choice of modules to study, for example you will have to choose certain modules to ensure you have the discipline specific credits required.

Students are barred from studying any American Studies module with significant overlap to Level 6 modules to be studied on their return. Significant overlap with Level 5 modules previously studied should also be avoided.

Additional costs for the International Year

Tuition fees for students on the International Year will be charged at 15% of the annual tuition fees for that year of study, as set out in Section 1. The International Year can be included in your Student Finance allocation, to find out more about your personal eligibility see: www.gov.uk

Students will have to bear the costs of travelling to and from their destination university, accommodation, food and personal costs. Depending on the destination they are studying at additional costs may include visas, study permits, residence permits, and compulsory health checks. Students should expect the total costs of studying abroad be greater than if they study in the UK, information is made available from the Global Education Team throughout the process, as costs will vary depending on destination.

Students studying in Erasmus+ destinations may be eligible for grants as part of this programme. Students studying outside of this programme may be eligible income dependent bursaries at Keele.

Students travel on a comprehensive Keele University insurance plan, for which there are currently no additional charges. Some Governments and/or universities require additional compulsory health coverage plans; costs for this will be advised during the application process.
