

Programme Specification: Undergraduate

For students starting in Academic Year 2017/2018

1. Course Summary

Names of programme(s) and award title(s)	Politics Politics with International Year
Award type	Dual Honours/Major/Minor Students who study their two Principal subjects in humanities and/or social science subjects will be awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts (with Honours) (BA Hons). All students who study a science Principal subject are candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science (with Honours) (BSc Hons) irrespective of their second Principal subject.
Mode of study	Full time
Framework of Higher Education Qualification (FHEQ) level of final award	Level 6
Duration	3 years 4 years with International Year
Location of study	Keele University – main campus
Accreditation (if applicable)	Not applicable
Regulator	Office for Students (OfS)
Tuition Fees	UK/EU students: Fee for 2017/18 is £9,250* International students: Fee for 2017/18 is £13,000 or £14,150 (if combined with a laboratory-based Principal Subject) The fee for the international year abroad is calculated at 15% of the standard year fee
Additional Costs	Refer to section 18

* These fees are regulated by Government. We reserve the right to increase fees in subsequent years of study in response to changes in government policy and/or changes to the law. If permitted by such change in policy or law, we may increase your fees by an inflationary amount or such other measure as required by government policy or the law. Please refer to the accompanying Student Terms & Conditions. Further information on fees can be found at <http://www.keele.ac.uk/studentfunding/tuitionfees/>

 We reserve the right to increase fees in subsequent years of study by an inflationary amount. Please refer to the accompanying Student Terms & Conditions for full details. Further information on fees can be found at <http://www.keele.ac.uk/studentfunding/tuitionfees/>

How this information might change: Please read the important information at <http://www.keele.ac.uk/student-agreement/>. This explains how and why we may need to make changes to the information provided in this document and to help you understand how we will communicate with you if this happens.

2. What is a Dual Honours programme?

Dual Honours degrees are degrees that are taken in two different subjects, resulting in an X and Y degree title, for example Politics and History. If you are taking a Dual Honours programme, these will be the two subjects you applied for. These are referred to as your Principal Subjects.

In a Dual Honours degree you must take at least 120 credits in each Principal Subject, accrued over all three levels of study, with at least 30 credits in Year 1 (Level 4) and at least 45 credits in each of Years 2 and 3 (Levels 5 and 6) in each of two Principal Subjects. The remaining available credits can be filled with modules from these subjects or other subjects entirely.

What is a Major/Minor programme?

Major/Minor degrees are degrees that are taken in two different subjects, much like a Dual Honours degree, except that you will specialise in the Major subject. In a Major/Minor degree you will need at least 225 credits in your Major subject over your three years of study with at least two modules (30 credits) taken each year in your Major Subject, although some Principal Subjects will require you to take more than this and this will be stated in the relevant programme specification. You will also need 90 credits in your Minor subject with a minimum of 30 credits (two modules) taken in Year 1 (Level 4) and 45 credits (three modules) taken in Year 2 (Level 5).

Students taking the Minor Route in Politics might not necessarily be able to demonstrate that they have achieved all of the Programme's learning outcomes.

3. Overview of the Programme

Politics is a living, relevant and controversial subject that is at the core of modern society. Politics matters because it shapes who gets what, when, how, why and where. To understand society, and the events and forces that shape it, we must engage with questions of power, justice, order, conflict, legitimacy, accountability, obligation, sovereignty, governance and decision-making. Learning about politics is developing a knowledge and understanding of government, people, ideas, institutions and their interactions.

At Keele, we encourage students to take an active role in the learning process. We teach using issues and debates on current questions of political concern so that the relevance of the subject is always apparent. By examining key contemporary issues, such as 'why are people becoming disillusioned with politics?', 'what is a democracy?' or 'when is it legitimate to resist the state?' we engage students with contemporary examples to bring out core features of the study of politics.

The course at Keele is largely designed around a path of learning that moves from introducing people to the subject through to a capacity to research it. The first stages of the course are intended to introduce students to the significance of the subject and to the study of politics. Politics is a broad discipline characterised by many different approaches to study: students are quickly introduced to some of those different approaches through consideration of political analysis, comparative government and political theory. Students are also introduced to the contested nature of politics and the problems of studying the subject effectively.

Alongside learning the core of the subject, students enjoy a great deal of choice in selecting their elective modules at Keele, allowing them to tailor their studies to suit their own particular areas of interest, whether these be mainly theoretical, historical, or oriented towards specific issue-areas in politics. Politics at Keele benefits from research expertise in environmental politics, social movements and revolutions, European politics, American politics, modern political ideas and political parties.

Furthermore, our range of student options is broadened by the presence of programmes in International Relations and Philosophy, each of which provide modules available to politics students. In the second year, the opportunity to study abroad widens student choice further and in the third year, many students choose dissertation subjects in an area that particularly interests them. By the time students complete the three years of an Honours Degree course, they understand both the core of the discipline and have developed specialist knowledge in the areas that most interest them. Furthermore, they have developed an extensive portfolio of skills, both specific to politics as a discipline and transferable to many other venues. These skills aid students to succeed in the workforce and to be informed participants in civic life.

4. Aims of the Programme

The broad aims of the programme are to:

- understand the nature and significance of politics
- acquire knowledge and understanding in appropriate areas of political theory and political analysis
- understand and use the concepts, approaches and methods of their discipline
- understand the contested nature and problematic character of inquiry in the discipline
- develop a capacity to think critically and independently
- relate the academic study of politics to policy matters of public concern
- relate the academic theory to the practices of policy and political behaviour
- develop a range of cognitive and social skills relevant to their intellectual, vocational and personal development
- provide a curriculum supported by scholarship and a research culture that promotes breadth and depth of intellectual enquiry and debate

5. What you will learn

The intended learning outcomes of the programme (what students should know, understand and be able to do at the end of the programme), can be described under the following headings:

- Subject knowledge and understanding
- Subject specific skills
- Key or transferable skills (including employability skills)

Subject knowledge and understanding

Students who successfully complete all three years of the Programme and will be able to:

- apply concepts, theories and methods used in the study of politics to the analysis of political ideas, institutions, issues and practices
- demonstrate knowledge and understanding of different political systems, the nature and distribution of power in them; the social, economic, historical and cultural contexts within which they operate, and the relationships between them
- evaluate different interpretations of political issues and events
- understand key concepts from a range of theoretical approaches to the study of politics, appreciating the strengths and weaknesses of those different approaches
- think critically in evaluating different interpretations of political ideas, institutions, events and issues
- develop the ability to conduct and report on their own research using relevant concepts, suitable methods of investigation and appropriate techniques of scholarship
- achieve the personal and inter-personal skills necessary for them to find a fulfilling and rewarding career and become informed and active citizens with a continuing interest in politics.

Subject specific skills

Successful students who complete all three years of the Programme and graduate with a BA (Hons) in Politics will be able to:

- gather, select and organise evidence, data and information from a variety of secondary and some primary sources
- interpret, analyse and deploy that evidence, data and information
- construct reasoned argument, synthesise relevant information and exercise critical judgement
- identify, investigate, analyse, formulate and advocate solutions to problems

Key or transferable skills (including employability skills)

Successful students who complete all three years of the Programme and graduate with a BA(Hons) in Politics will be able to:

- communicate effectively and fluently in speech and writing
- use communication and information technology, including audio-visual technology, for the retrieval and presentation of information, including, where appropriate, statistical or numerical information
- work independently, demonstrating initiative, self-organisation and time management, to become a mature, independent learner
- collaborate with others to achieve common goals
- pursue research projects across a range of issues using methods grounded in social science

The extent to which a student will develop this desirable portfolio of skills depends on the extent of their commitment to the subject of politics. The School offers Major, Dual and Minor routes through the programme. The Minor route is available to students who have some interest in the subject of politics, but wish to commit more of their study to another subject. This route allows Minor students to study the basics of politics without developing their research capacities, so not all of the aims listed above are fully met through pursuing Politics as a minor subject. The Dual and Major routes, on the other hand, offer routes for those with a greater degree of commitment to the subject and so involve a corresponding broadening of the range of skills taught. These two routes equip students to take the dissertation module in their final year, reflecting the research capacities gained in the preceding two years.

Keele Graduate attributes

Engagement with this programme will enable you to develop your intellectual, personal and professional capabilities. At Keele, we call these our ten Graduate Attributes and they include independent thinking, synthesizing information, creative problem solving, communicating clearly, and appreciating the social, environmental and global implications of your studies and activities. Our educational programme and learning environment is designed to help you to become a well-rounded graduate who is capable of making a positive and valued contribution in a complex and rapidly changing world, whichever spheres of life you engage in after your studies are completed.

Further information about the Keele Graduate Attributes can be found here: <http://www.keele.ac.uk/journey/>

6. How is the Programme taught?

Learning and teaching methods used on the programme vary according to the subject matter and level of the module. They include the following:

- Traditional lectures; where the lecturer provides students with a framework for reading and independent study. Most lecturers employ presentation software such as MS PowerPoint, while sometimes also making use of video and audio presentations. Lectures allow students to gain a systematic understanding both of key theoretical approaches to politics and of fundamental concepts employed in studying the subject

- Tutorials and seminars where key issues can be discussed in more depth. Students are expected to play a full part in, and occasionally to lead, these discussions, either individually, or as part of a small team. Some tutorials and seminars involve presentations (from individual students or students working in small teams). Seminars and tutorials provide opportunities for students to ask questions about, and suggest answers to, problems encountered in politics and to present their own ideas
- Interactive workshops; where students in large classes have the opportunity to work together in smaller groups, interact with the lecturer and reflect on their own learning. Workshops encourage students to reflect on their own learning and take responsibility for its development by addressing areas of difficulty, perhaps by discussing them with their fellow students or by getting additional help from staff
- Independent study; based on directed reading from text books, research monographs, academic journals, official government publications, the printed media and appropriate sources deployed on the worldwide web. When combined with lectures, independent study is an integral part of developing proper understanding of key concepts, approaches and debates in the field
- Web-based learning using the University's virtual learning environment (KLE). The KLE gives students easy access to a wide range of resources and research tools to assist their studies, and can be used as a platform for online discussions, quizzes and blogs
- Dissertations; should a student choose to take their dissertation double module in politics, the dissertation modules provide the opportunity to receive training in designing a research project and then implementing it independently. Undertaking a research dissertation with the supervision and support of experienced and active researchers from our staff allows students to formulate relevant research questions and devise a feasible and ethically sound strategy for answering them

Apart from these formal activities, students are also provided with regular opportunities to talk through particular areas of difficulty, and any special learning needs they may have, with their Personal Tutors or module lecturers on a one-to-one basis.

These learning and teaching methods enable students to achieve the learning outcomes of the programme in a variety of ways.

7. Teaching Staff

In the School of Politics, Philosophy, International Relations and Environment, the permanent teaching staff on the Politics Principal Programme currently consists of a number of full professors, senior lecturers and lecturers. Nearly all members of staff have doctorates (PhDs or the equivalent) in politics or a closely related subject in the social sciences. As members of the University's Research Centre for SPIRE in the Research Institute for Social Sciences, they are all active researchers whose work, across many different aspects of politics, has been widely published in books, research monographs and leading international journals. The work of some members of staff has been used directly in shaping policy in their areas of expertise at the national and international levels.

The staff group has extensive experience of teaching at undergraduate and postgraduate level in universities in the UK, continental Europe, North America and Australasia. All members of staff in the School of Politics, International Relations and Philosophy complete appropriate training as part of their induction to University teaching and most are members or associates of the Higher Education Academy and/or have a formal teaching qualification.

The University will attempt to minimise changes to our core teaching teams, however, delivery of the programme depends on having a sufficient number of staff with the relevant expertise to ensure that the programme is taught to the appropriate academic standard.

Staff turnover, for example where key members of staff leave, fall ill or go on research leave, may result in changes to the programme's content. The University will endeavour to ensure that any impact on students is limited if such changes occur.

8. What is the Structure of the Programme?

The academic year runs from September to June and is divided into two semesters. The number of weeks of teaching will vary from course to course, but you can generally expect to attend scheduled teaching sessions between the end of September and mid-December, and from mid-January to the end of April.

Our degree courses are organised into modules. Each module is usually a self-contained unit of study and each is usually assessed separately with the award of credits on the basis of 1 credit = 10 hours of student effort. An outline of the structure of the programme is provided in the tables below.

There are four types of module delivered as part of this programme. They are:

- Compulsory core module – a module that you are required to study on this course;
- Optional core module – these allow you some limited choice of what to study from a list of modules;
- Programme approved elective module – subject-related modules that count towards the number of subject credits required by your degree;
- Free-standing elective module – a free choice of modules that count towards the overall credit requirement but not the number of subject-related credits.

There are three separate routes through the Dual Honours Politics Programme and students may choose which of these routes they wish to take. The required modules are the same during the first and second years whichever route is taken. However, the routes involve different requirements for number of credits accumulated in Politics over the three years of the course and different rules on whether the dissertation module is required or not.

Major Route in Politics

If you take Politics as a Major subject you must accumulate at least 225 credits in Politics over the three years of your degree programme. You must take the Level 6 (Year 3) Politics double-module Dissertation.

Dual Honours in Politics

If you take Politics as a Dual Honours Principal Subject you must accumulate at least 120 credits in Politics over the three years of your degree programme. You must take at least one Politics elective module in each semester at Level 6 (Year 3), choosing from a range of taught elective modules, including the elective Dissertation double-module.

Minor Route in Politics

If you take Politics as a Minor subject you must accumulate at least 90 credits in Politics over the three years of your degree programme.

An outline of the structure of the Dual Honours programme (including the Major, Dual and Minor routes) is provided in the tables below to explain how these credits could be earned.

Year 1 (Level 4)

Compulsory Core modules	Credits	Programme Approved Elective modules	Credits
Why Politics Matters	15	British Politics Since 1945	15
Modern Democracies	15	Introduction to International Relations	15
		The Changing World: A History of International Relations since 1945	15
		The Politics of Sustainability	15
		Debates in American Politics	15
		Introduction to Global Political Economy	15
		Justice, Authority and Power	15
		Securing Global Order	15

Year 2 (Level 5)

Compulsory Core modules	Credits	Programme Approved Elective modules	Credits
Elections, Voters and Public Opinion	15	Peace, Conflict and Security: Theories and Practice	15
Programme Approved Elective modules		Power to the People: Understanding the Origins of Western Politics	15
British Government & Politics	15	The Politics of the European Union	15
Contemporary International Relations Theory	15	The Practice of Politics	15
Environmental Politics & Policy	15	Work Experience in Politics, International Relations and Philosophy	15
Why Policy Changes	15	Comparing the US and UK	15
International Relations of the Environment	15	African Politics	15
Russian Politics and Society	15	International Organization	15
Freedom and Equality	15	International Relations of Eurasia	15
U.S. Government & Politics	15

Year 3 (Level 6)

Optional Core / Programme Approved Elective modules	Credits	Optional Core / Programme Approved Elective modules	Credits
Dissertation in Politics and IR (ISP)*	30	Understanding Terrorism and Counter-Terrorism	15
Russia and Europe: Hopes for Partnership, Legacy of Confrontation	15	Britain and War Since 1945: War, Cold War, and Society	15
Feminist Theory	15	Modern Russia	15
Human Rights: Concepts, Norms and Identities	15	Party Systems and Elections	15
Gendering Global Politics	15	Policing International Order	15
Politics of Development	15	Protest and Social Movements	15
Contemporary Democratic Theory	15	The Extreme Right in Western Europe	15
Israel/Palestine: Key Debates and Issues	15	Urban Politics	15
The Left in Modern Politics	15	The US Presidency	15
The Missing Dimension: Conspiracies, Spying and International Relations	15	Civil Rights in the United States	15
Environmental Political Economy	15	Parliamentary Studies	15
The Modern Middle East: Conflict, Competition and Cooperation	15

* Compulsory for Major route students. NB: ISP = Independent Study Project. You are required to take one ISP in your final year

Only the modules listed in the tables below may count towards the minimum number of credits in Politics necessary to graduate with the student's chosen named Politics degree. However, students may choose to study modules which are offered as part of other programmes or as freestanding modules across the University. These include, for example:

- Modules in other subjects closely related to Politics, or in which they have a particular interest, such as International Relations, Philosophy and History.
- Modules designed to help students for whom English is not their first language.
- Modern foreign language modules at different levels in Mandarin Chinese, French, German, Spanish, Italian, Russian, Arabic and Japanese.
- Freestanding elective modules in subjects of general interest including ethics, contemporary religions and the politics, society and culture of some of Britain's European neighbours.

- Freestanding elective modules related to student volunteering, studying abroad as part of the University's exchange programme, employability skills and personal development

For further information on the content of modules currently offered please visit:

www.keele.ac.uk/recordsandexams/az

Learning Outcomes

The tables below set out what students learn in each year of the Programme, the modules in which that learning takes place, and the main ways in which students are assessed on their learning. In Year 1, these learning outcomes are achieved in the two compulsory core modules which all students are required to take. In Year 2 some outcomes are achieved within the compulsory core module in the first semester, while others are achieved in optional core modules or through elective modules together with other outcomes not stated here. In Year 3, the stated outcomes are achieved by taking any of the modules offered in each semester.

Year 1 (Level 4)

Many students will not have taken politics before university, so the first year is intended to give new politics students a foundation and engaging introduction to the subject. At the same time, we offer a broader focus than current A-level curricula, using a more comparative and issue-based approach. Our first priority is to equip students with an understanding of politics' significance. By taking contemporary issues and examining underlying questions of power, representation, participation and ideology, students are encouraged to understand the complex events and forces that shape the world we live in. Through the year's work, students should better understand government, society and the interactions between the two.

We give students a first introduction to political theory, political analysis and the differences between the two. It is particularly important that students should grasp the essential contestability of all academic work in politics and begin to engage with the ongoing debates over core concepts in the subject. Particularly, students will achieve a much better understanding of the concept of democracy. We use this idea to examine how those studying politics use concepts and apply them, so introducing students to a number of the subject's more commonly used methods.

We also use the year to develop students' culture of university study, which in the process encourages development of a portfolio of employability skills. Students sharpen their analytical skills through working with academic literature, reviewing materials and handling data. Through work on essay writing, information technology and presentations, students' ability to communicate ideas effectively is enhanced. Students are also asked both to work as part of a team and develop their capacity for independent research.

In completing the first year, students should both be familiar with many of the subject's core areas and have been introduced to many of the subject's core skills. This foundation allows students to move on to more advanced work in the second and third year.

Subject Knowledge and Understanding
Learning Outcome Successful students will be able to:	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of the Level Outcome) used
Apply concepts, theories and methods used in the study of politics to the analysis of political ideas, institutions, issues and practices	Modern Democracies	Presentation; Exam

Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of different political systems, the nature and distribution of power in them; the social, economic, historical and cultural contexts within which they operate, and the relationships between them	Modern Democracies	Data Analysis; Presentation; Exam
Evaluate different interpretations of political issues and events	Why Politics Matters	Class; Test; Essay
Understand key concepts from a range of theoretical approaches to the study of politics, appreciating the strengths and weaknesses of those different approaches	Why Politics Matters	Essay
Think critically in evaluating different interpretations of political ideas, institutions, events and issues	Why Politics Matters	Essay

Subject Specific Skills
Learning Outcome Successful students will be able to:	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of the Level Outcome) used
gather, select and organise evidence, data and information from a variety of secondary and some primary sources	Why Politics Matters Modern Democracies	Presentation interpret, analyse and deploy evidence, data and information	All Modules e.g. Modern Democracies	Data Analysis construct reasoned argument, synthesise relevant information and exercise critical judgment	All Modules e.g. Why Politics Matters	Class; Test; Essay identify, investigate, analyse, formulate and advocate solutions to problems	Available in Year 1 elective modules, but not core modules e.g. Debates in American Politics	Group Presentation; Individual Presentation

Key or Transferable Skills (graduate attributes)
Learning Outcome Successful students will be able to:	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of the Level Outcome) used
Communicate effectively and fluently in speech and writing	All Modules e.g. Modern Democracies	Presentation
use communication and information technology, including audio-visual technology, for the retrieval and presentation of information, including, where appropriate, statistical or numerical information	Why Politics Matters	Group Presentation
work independently, demonstrating initiative, self-organisation and time	All Modules e.g. Modern Democracies	Presentation management, to become a mature, independent learner collaborate with others to achieve common goals	Why Politics Matters Modern Democracies	Group Presentation Data Analysis

Year 2 (Level 5)

Year 2 (Level 5) puts further emphasis on the development of skills specific to the subject of politics. Students deepen their knowledge on particular concerns, such as specific countries, regions, institutions, concepts or policy areas, and have the opportunity to choose the direction of their interests more, choosing between optional cores in political theory, policy or comparative analysis.

Just as importantly, students develop their skills in political analysis. Students are encouraged to recognise, and use, different theoretical perspectives and methods, and to appreciate the strengths and weaknesses of these differing lenses. Case studies based around current topics of political discussion will be used to develop students' engagement with key issues and develop their understanding of how these issues can be studied. Students will develop their understanding of theories and concepts further, sharpen their powers of critical evaluation to allow them to make more sophisticated, reasoned and informed judgments, improve their written and verbal communication and enhance their data handling and interpretation skills. Many of these skills will contribute to students' growing understanding of the research process; students will engage with core research concepts such as causation and validity to introduce them to research design. Students have the opportunity to test these skills in core modules through small-scale research projects.

Subject Knowledge and Understanding
Learning Outcome Successful students will be able to:	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of the Level Outcome) used
Apply concepts, theories and methods used in the study of politics to the analysis of political ideas, institutions, issues and practices	Elections, Voters and Public Opinion Comparative Political Analysis Freedom and Equality Why Policy Changes	Report; Essay; questionnaire design Exam Essay Essay
Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of different political systems, the nature and distribution of power in them; the social, economic, historical and cultural contexts within which they operate, and the relationships between them	Comparative Political Analysis	Exam
Evaluate different interpretations of political issues and events	Elections, Voters and Public Opinion Freedom and Equality Why Policy Changes	Report; Essay Essay Essay
Understand key concepts from a range of theoretical approaches to the study of politics, appreciating the strengths and weaknesses of those different approaches	Elections, Voters and Public Opinion	Essay
Think critically in evaluating different interpretations of political ideas, institutions, events and issues	All Modules	Exam; Essay

Develop the ability to conduct and report on their own research using relevant concepts, suitable methods of investigation and appropriate techniques of scholarship	All modules	Essay; questionnaire design
--	-------------	-----------------------------

Subject Specific Skills
Learning Outcome Successful students will be able to:	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of the Level Outcome) used
gather, select and organise evidence, data and information from a variety of secondary and some primary sources	All modules	Essay; portfolios interpret, analyse and deploy evidence, data and information	All Modules e.g. Elections, Voters and Public Opinion	Essay; report; questionnaire design construct reasoned argument, synthesise relevant information and exercise critical judgment	All Modules e.g. Approaches to Political Analysis	Review;; Essay
identify, investigate, analyse, formulate and advocate solutions to problems	All modules	Essay; report; exam

Key or Transferable Skills (graduate attributes)
Learning Outcome Successful students will be able to:	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of the Level Outcome) used
Communicate effectively and fluently in speech and writing	All Modules	Essay; Exam
use communication and information technology, including audio-visual technology, for the retrieval and presentation of information, including, where appropriate, statistical or numerical information	Election, Voters and Public Opinion	Report; questionnaire design
work independently, demonstrating initiative, self-organisation and time management, to become a mature, independent learner	All Modules e.g. Elections, Voters and Public Opinion	Essay; exam; questionnaire design

Year 3 (Level 6)

Year 3 (Level 6) is the venue for students to pursue their specialist interests in greater depth. Given the grounding gained from the preceding two years, students are ready to complete their path to a degree qualification by engaging with cutting edge academic political research in their chosen area of politics, assisted by research-active staff in the field. Modules are more narrowly tailored to particular political questions and rely more heavily upon seminar teaching. For students on each route through the programme, the final year is the opportunity for students to develop and demonstrate their capacities to think critically, work independently, present information compellingly and make reasoned arguments.

While the above is true for Minor students, the year will provide differing experiences, depending on the student's chosen route through the Dual Honours programme. Minor students will be able to continue their study of politics through a handful of specialist modules while maintaining their commitment to their other, Major subject. For Major students in politics, and Dual Honours students in Politics who choose to take the dissertation, the final year is the opportunity for students to develop research skills. Major students are particularly encouraged to pursue research themselves, through the assessment of taught modules but particularly through dissertations. For major students, the year should set the groundwork for Masters level study or for students to move into the world of work. While the commitment to the subject of politics is substantial, the structures of the Major and Dual Honours routes in politics should allow enough flexibility for the final year student to maintain their interest in another subject.

Subject Knowledge and Understanding
Learning Outcome Successful students will be able to:	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of the Level Outcome) used
Apply concepts, theories and methods used in the study of politics to the analysis of political ideas, institutions, issues and practices	All Modules e.g. Dissertation	Dissertation
Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of different political systems, the nature and distribution of power in them; the social, economic, historical and cultural contexts within which they operate, and the relationships between them	Achieved in some elective modules in Year 3 depending on student's chosen specialisms
Evaluate different interpretations of political issues and events	Achieved in some elective modules in Year 3 depending on student's chosen specialisms
Understand key concepts from a range of theoretical approaches to the study of politics, appreciating the strengths and weaknesses of those different approaches	Achieved in some elective modules in Year 3 depending on student's chosen specialisms
Think critically in evaluating different interpretations of political ideas, institutions, events and issues	All Modules e.g. Dissertation	Dissertation
Develop the ability to conduct and report on their own research using relevant concepts, suitable methods of investigation and appropriate techniques of scholarship	Dissertation	Portfolio; Dissertation

Subject Specific Skills
Learning Outcome	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of Successful students will be able to:		the Level Outcome) used

gather, select and organise evidence, data and information from a variety of secondary and some primary sources	Dissertation	Dissertation
interpret, analyse and deploy evidence, data and information	Dissertation	Dissertation
construct reasoned argument, synthesise relevant information and exercise critical judgment	All Modules e.g. Dissertation	Dissertation
identify, investigate, analyse, formulate and advocate solutions to problems	Dissertation	Portfolio; Dissertation

Key or Transferable Skills (graduate attributes)
Learning Outcome Successful students will be able to:	Module in which this is delivered	Principal forms of assessment (of the Level Outcome) used communicate effectively and fluently in speech and writing	All Modules e.g. Dissertation	Dissertation
use communication and information technology, including audio-visual technology, for the retrieval and presentation of information, including, where appropriate, statistical or numerical information	Achieved in some elective modules in Year 3 depending on student's chosen specialisms
work independently, demonstrating initiative, self-organisation and time management, to become a mature, independent learner	All Modules e.g. Dissertation	Dissertation
collaborate with others to achieve common goals	Achieved in some elective modules in Year 3 depending on student's chosen specialisms

9. Final and intermediate awards

Credits required for each level of academic award are as follows:

Honours Degree	360 credits	You will require at least 120 credits at levels 4, 5 and 6. The number of Politics credits you require depends on whether Politics is taken as a Dual, Major or Minor subject. Dual Honours: You will require at least 120 credits in both Politics and your other principal subject (out of 360 credits overall), with at least 30 credits in Year 1 (Level 4) and at least 45 credits in each of Years 2 and 3 (Levels 5 and 6) in each of your two Principal Subjects. You will also be required to take at least one Independent Study Project in your final year. Major route: You will require at least 225 credits in Politics and at least 90 credits in your other Minor subject over the
-----------------------	-------------	--

		course of the degree. Students taking Politics as a Major subject must obtain at least 30 credits in Politics in each level of study. Minor route: You will require at least 90 credits in Politics and at least 225 credits in your other Major subject over the course of the degree. Students taking Politics as a Minor subject must obtain at least 30 credits in Politics in Year 1 (level 4) and 45 credits in Politics in Year 2 (level 5).
Diploma in Higher Education	240 credits	You will require at least 120 credits at level 4 or higher and at least 120 credits at level 5 or higher
Certificate in Higher Education	120 credits	You will require at least 120 credits at level 4 or higher

Politics with International Year: in addition to the above students must pass a module covering the international year in order to graduate with a named degree in Politics with International Year. Students who do not complete, or fail the international year, will be transferred to the three-year Politics programme.

10. How is the Programme assessed?

The wide variety of assessment methods used within Politics at Keele reflects the broad range of knowledge and skills that are developed as you progress through the degree programme. Teaching staff pay particular attention to specifying clear assessment criteria and providing timely, regular and constructive feedback that helps to clarify things you did not understand and helps you to improve your performance. The following list is representative of the variety of assessment methods used within Politics:

- Essays test the quality and application of subject knowledge. In addition they allow students to demonstrate their ability to carry out basic bibliographic research and to communicate their ideas effectively through writing in an appropriate scholarly style using the Harvard system of referencing
- Reviews and Critiques of other scholars' work test students' ability to identify and summarise the key points of a text and to evaluate the quality of arguments and the evidence used to support them
- Unseen examinations and class tests investigate students' knowledge of the relevant aspects of politics. Examinations require students to answer questions by writing a number of short essays
- Research Design Projects and associated Research Papers allow students to demonstrate their ability to formulate a research question and identify an appropriate research methodology as part of the task of designing and implementing a research strategy to enable them to address the research question effectively
- Oral presentations and group presentations assess students' subject knowledge and understanding, as well as their ability to communicate what they know orally and visually. When delivered by groups of students, they also test students' ability to work effectively as members of a team
- Portfolios and Worksheets may consist of a range of different pieces of work while usually also including evidence of students' critical reflection on the development of their own learning

Marks are awarded for summative assessments designed to assess your achievement of learning outcomes. You will also be assessed formatively to enable you to monitor your own progress and to assist staff in identifying and addressing any specific learning needs. Feedback, including guidance on how you can improve the quality of your work, is also provided on all summative assessments within three working weeks of submission, unless there are compelling circumstances that make this impossible, and more informally in the course of tutorial and seminar discussions.

11. Contact Time and Expected Workload

This contact time measure is intended to provide you with an indication of the type of activity you are likely to undertake during this programme. The data is compiled based on module choices and learning patterns of students on similar programmes in previous years. Every effort is made to ensure this data is a realistic representation of what you are likely to experience, but changes to programmes, teaching methods and assessment methods mean this data is representative and not specific.

Undergraduate courses at Keele contain an element of module choice; therefore, individual students will experience a different mix of contact time and assessment types dependent upon their own individual choice of modules. The figures below are an example of activities that a student may expect on your chosen course by year/stage of study. Contact time includes scheduled activities such as: lecture, seminar, tutorial, project supervision, demonstration, practical classes and labs, supervised time in labs/workshop, fieldwork and external visits. The figures are based on 1,200 hours of student effort each year for full-time students.

Activity	Year 1 (Level 4)	Year 2 (Level 5)	Year 3 (Level 6)
Scheduled learning and teaching activities	16%	16%	13%
Guided independent Study	84%	84%	87%
Placements	0%	0%	0%

12. Accreditation

This programme does not have accreditation from an external body.

13. Regulations

The University Regulations form the framework for learning, teaching and assessment and other aspects of the student experience. Further information about the University Regulations can be found at: <http://www.keele.ac.uk/student-agreement/>

A student who has completed a semester abroad will not normally be eligible to transfer onto the International Year option.

14. What are the typical admission requirements for the programme?

Subject	A-level	Subjects not included	International Baccalaureate	BTEC	Access to Higher Education Diploma	GCSE requirements
Politics (Single and Dual Honours)	BBB/ ABC	None	32 points	DDM	Obtain Access to Higher Education Diploma with 30 Level 3 credits at Distinction.	Maths or Science @ C (or 4) English Language @ C (or 4)

Applicants who are not currently undertaking any formal study or who have been out of formal education for more than 3 years and are not qualified to A-level or BTEC standard may be offered entry to the University's Foundation Year Programme.

Applicants for whom English is not a first language must provide evidence of a recognised qualification in English language. The minimum score for entry to the Programme is Academic IELTS 6.0 or equivalent.

Please note: All non-native English speaking students are required to undertake a diagnostic English language assessment on arrival at Keele, to determine whether English language support may help them succeed with their studies. An English language module may be compulsory for some students during their first year at Keele.

Accreditation of Prior Learning (APL) is considered on a case-by-case basis and those interested should contact the Programme Director. The University's guidelines on this can be found here:

<http://www.keele.ac.uk/qa/accreditationofpriorlearning/>

15. How are students supported on the programme?

Support for student learning on the Programme is provided in the following ways:

- Module coordinators and tutorial group leaders provide support for learning on the modules and in the tutorial groups for which they are responsible.
- Modules co-ordinators also give individual feedback on in-course assessments, all essays submitted and more general feedback on examinations.
- Support is also available from the Director of the Politics Principal Programme, the School's Director of Learning and Teaching and the school office. An annual module fair is organised to help students with module choices.
- Every student is allocated to a Personal Tutor who is responsible for reviewing, and advising on, students' academic progress in Politics and on their other Principal Programme.
- Personal Tutors also act as a first point of contact for students on non-academic issues which may affect their learning and can refer students on to a range of specialist health, welfare and financial services co-ordinated by the University's Student Support and Development Service (SSDS).
- Additional help with University level study skills is available from the Life and Learning Team within SSDS
- Students for whom English is not their first language are offered language classes, facilities and services by the University's English Language Unit. In addition to credit-bearing modules on English for academic study, students also have access to one-to-one tutorials for individual help and advice, and to a wealth of resources for self-study and practice.

All members of teaching staff on the Politics Principal Programme are available to see students during advertised weekly office hours and at other times by appointment.

16. Learning Resources

Politics is taught in modern teaching rooms across the University, almost all of which are equipped with computers, internet access and electronic whiteboards or projection equipment. Rooms may be arranged either in traditional lecture format or more informally to allow students to work together in small groups.

The learning resources available to students on the Politics Programme include:

- The extensive collection of politics materials relevant to undergraduate study held in the University Library: these materials include books, journals and government publications. Much of this material is also accessible online for Keele students from anywhere in the world.
- The Keele Learning Environment (KLE) provides easy access to a wide range of learning resources including lecture notes, electronic materials available in a repository maintained by the University Library and other resources – video, audio and text- based – accessible from external providers via the internet.
- Effective Communication: a Resource for SPIRE Students is SPIRE's study resources module within the KLE. This module is tailor-made to support politics students. It contains a wealth of electronically accessible materials giving guidance, often interactive, on almost all aspects of study, including: finding and evaluating sources of information; planning and writing essays, research papers and dissertations; acknowledging sources appropriately using the Harvard system; working with others in groups and teams, and preparing and delivering oral presentations.

- Electronic Access to Periodicals: A Resource for SPIRE Students is another support module created especially within the KLE for students of Politics, International Relations and Philosophy, which enables them more easily to make full use of the over 650 academic journals relevant to their degree programmes that are electronically available to Keele students free of charge.

17. Other learning opportunities

Study abroad (semester)

Students on the Politics programme have the potential opportunity to spend a semester abroad in their second year studying at one of Keele's international partner universities.

Exactly which countries are available depends on the student's choice of degree subjects. An indicative list of countries is on the website (<http://www.keele.ac.uk/studyabroad/partneruniversities/>); however this does not guarantee the availability of study in a specific country as this is subject to the University's application process for studying abroad.

No additional tuition fees are payable for a single semester studying abroad but students do have to bear the costs of travelling to and from their destination university, accommodation, food and personal costs. Depending on the destination they are studying at additional costs may include visas, study permits, residence permits, and compulsory health checks. Students should expect the total costs of studying abroad to be greater than if they study in the UK, information is made available from the Global Education Team throughout the process, as costs will vary depending on destination

Whilst students are studying abroad any Student Finance eligibility will continue, where applicable students may be eligible for specific travel or disability grants. Students studying in Erasmus+ destinations may be eligible for grants as part of this programme. Students studying outside of this programme may be eligible for income dependent bursaries at Keele.

Students travel on a comprehensive Keele University insurance plan, for which there are currently no additional charges. Some governments and/or universities require additional compulsory health coverage plans; costs for this will be advised during the application process.

Study Abroad (International Year)

A summary of the International Year, which is a potential option for students after completion of year 2 (Level 5), is provided at Annex A.

18. Additional costs

These costs have been forecast by the University as accurately as possible but may be subject to change as a result of factors outside of our control (for example, increase in costs for external services). Forecast costs are reviewed on an annual basis to ensure they remain representative. Where additional costs are in direct control of the University we will ensure increases do not exceed 5%.

As to be expected there will be additional costs for inter-library loans and potential overdue library fines, print and graduation.

We do not anticipate any further additional costs for this undergraduate programme.

19. Quality management and enhancement

The quality and standards of learning in Politics are subject to a continuous process of monitoring, review and enhancement.

- The Learning and Teaching Committee of the School of Politics, Philosophy, International Relations and Environment is responsible for reviewing and monitoring quality management and enhancement procedures and activities across the School.

- Individual modules and the Politics Programme as a whole are reviewed and enhanced every year in the annual programme review which takes place at the end of the academic year and as part of the University's Curriculum Annual Review and Development (CARD) process.
- The programmes are run in accordance with the University's Quality Assurance procedures and are subject to periodic reviews under the Internal Quality Audit (IQA) process.

Student evaluation of, and feedback on, the quality of learning on every Politics module takes place every year using a variety of different methods:

- The results of student evaluations of all modules are reported to module leaders and reviewed by the Programme Committee as part of the Curriculum Annual Review and Development (CARD) process.
- Findings related to the Politics Programmes from the annual National Student Survey (NSS), and from regular surveys of the student experience conducted by the University, are subjected to careful analysis and a planned response at programme and School level.
- Feedback received from representatives of students in all three years of the Politics Programme is considered and acted on at regular meetings of the Programmes Staff/Student Liaison Committee.
- Students are represented on the School's Learning and Teaching Committee and in full School level meetings.

Additionally, the quality and standards of learning are regularly discussed and monitored by the Politics Programme Board and by the School Learning & Teaching Committee.

The University appoints senior members of academic staff from other universities to act as external examiners on all programmes. They are responsible for:

- Approving examination questions
- Confirming all marks which contribute to a student's degree
- Reviewing and giving advice on the structure and content of the programme and assessment procedures

Information about current external examiner(s) can be found here:

<http://www.keele.ac.uk/qa/externalexaminers/currentexternalexaminers/>

20. The principles of programme design

The Politics Programmes described in this document have been drawn up with reference to, and in accordance with the guidance set out in, the following documents:

- UK Quality Code for Higher Education, Quality Assurance Agency for Higher Education: <http://www.qaa.ac.uk/quality-code>
- QAA Subject Benchmark Statement: Politics and International Relations (2015) http://www.qaa.ac.uk/docs/qaa/subject-benchmark-statements/sbs-politics-15.pdf?sfvrsn=ee95f781_10
- Keele University Regulations and Guidance for Students and Staff: <http://www.keele.ac.uk/regulations>

21. Document Version History

Version history	Date	Notes
Date first created	October 2016
Revision history	V2.0: March 2017	Change of module title for a Level 5 core module: 'Political Research in Action' to 'Elections, Voters and Public Opinion' to better reflect the content of the module [minor – no reissue].

	V2.1: March 2019	Updates to optional modules [minor]
Date approved	17/03/2017

Annex A

Politics (Dual Honours)

Please note: in order to be eligible to take the International Year option your other subject must also offer this option. Please refer to the information published in the course document for your other subject.

International Year Programme

Students registered for Dual Honours Politics may either be admitted for or apply to transfer during their period of study at Level 5 to the Dual Honours programme in both their principal subjects, providing that they meet the progression criteria outlined in this document. Students accepted onto the International Year programme will have an extra year of study at an international partner institution after they have completed Year 2 (Level 5) at Keele.

Students who successfully complete both the second year (Level 5) and the International Year will be permitted to progress to Level 6. Students who fail to satisfy the examiners in respect of the International Year will normally revert to the Dual Honours programme without the International Year and progress to Level 6 on that basis. The failure will be recorded on the student's final transcript.

Study at Level 4, Level 5 and Level 6 will be as per the main body of this document. The additional detail contained in this annex will pertain solely to students registered for 'Politics with International Year'.

International Year Programme Aims

In addition to the programme aims specified in the main body of this document, the international year programme of study aims to provide students with:

1. Personal development as a student and a researcher with an appreciation of the international dimension of their subject
2. Experience of a different culture, academically, professionally and socially

Entry Requirements for the International Year

Students may apply to the 4-year programme during Level 5. Admission to the International Year is subject to successful application, interview and references from appropriate staff.

The criteria to be applied are:

- Academic Performance (an average of 60% across all modules at Level 5 is normally required)
- General Aptitude (to be demonstrated by application for study abroad, interview during the 2nd semester of year 2 (Level 5), and by recommendation of the student's personal tutor, 1st and 2nd year tutors and programme director)

Student Support

Students will be supported whilst on the International Year via the following methods:

- Phone or Skype conversations with Study Abroad tutors, in line with recommended Personal Tutoring meeting points.
- Support from the University's Global Education Team

Learning Outcomes

In addition to the learning outcomes specified in the main text of the Programme Specification, students who complete a Keele undergraduate programme with International Year will be able to:

- a. Describe, discuss and reflect upon the cultural and international differences and similarities of different learning environments

- b. Discuss the benefits and challenges of global citizenship and internationalisation
- c. Explain how their perspective on their academic discipline has been influenced by locating it within an international setting.

In addition, students who complete 'Politics with International Year' will be able to:

- i) Design, plan and critically evaluate research projects with respect to politics, record relevant information accurately and systematically and be able to reflect on a range of sources in a critical manner.
- ii) Integrate, apply and develop enhanced principles relating to political analysis; recognise, describe and explain cultural phenomena across national boundaries and reflect critically upon problems relating to contemporary politics, society and culture.

Please note that students on Dual Honours programmes with International Year must meet the subject-specific learning outcomes for BOTH their principal subjects.

These learning outcomes will all be assessed by the submission of a satisfactory individual learning agreement, the successful completion of assessments at the partner institution and the submission of the reflective portfolio element of the international year module.

Course Regulations

Students registered for the 'Politics with International Year' are subject to the course specific regulations (if any) and the University regulations. In addition, during the International Year, the following regulations will apply:

Students undertaking the International Year must complete 120 credits, which must comprise at least 40% in the student's discipline areas.

This may impact on your choice of modules to study, for example you will have to choose certain modules to ensure you have the discipline specific credits required.

Students are barred from studying any Politics module with significant overlap to Level 6 modules to be studied on their return. Significant overlap with Level 5 modules previously studied should also be avoided.

Additional costs for the International Year

Tuition fees for students on the International Year will be charged at 15% of the annual tuition fees for that year of study, as set out in Section 1. The International Year can be included in your Student Finance allocation, to find out more about your personal eligibility see: www.gov.uk

Students will have to bear the costs of travelling to and from their destination university, accommodation, food and personal costs. Depending on the destination they are studying at additional costs may include visas, study permits, residence permits, and compulsory health checks. Students should expect the total costs of studying abroad be greater than if they study in the UK, information is made available from the Global Education Team throughout the process, as costs will vary depending on destination.

Students studying in Erasmus+ destinations may be eligible for grants as part of this programme. Students studying outside of this programme may be eligible income dependent bursaries at Keele.

Students travel on a comprehensive Keele University insurance plan, for which there are currently no additional charges. Some Governments and/or universities require additional compulsory health coverage plans; costs for this will be advised during the application process.